IP Canonicalization Test

http://www.gironanoticias.com

✗ Your site's IP 185.161.98.36 does not redirect to your site's domain name. This may cause duplicate content problems if a search engine indexes your site under both its IP and domain name.

HOW TO FIX IP CANONICALIZATION TEST

Please note that fixing any IP canonicalization issues requires a dedicated IP address (which may be more difficult to obtain on a shared hosting plan). While IP canonicalization issues in themselves are likely benign in the scheme of search engine rankings, investing in a dedicated IP can be beneficial for other ranking reasons well, such as site security (avoiding being labelled as a malware website by association with other malicious websites who might share your IP) and when implementing SSL (older browsers mostly on Windows XP may require a unique IP to work properly).

In order to pass this test you must consider using a 301 re-write rule in your .htaccess file so that your site's IP points to your domain name. If your site is running on apache server, you could put these lines in your .htaccess after RewriteEngine on line:

```
RewriteCond %{HTTP_HOST} ^XXX.XXX.XXX.XXX
RewriteRule (.*) http://www.yourdomain.com/$1 [R=301,L]
```

Note that you must properly format the first line using your IP (replace X characters with proper digits from your IP) and the second line using your domain name.

http://elmundo.es

✓ Your site's IP 193.110.128.109 successfully redirects to <http://www.elmundo.es/>.

MOBILE USABILITY

Media Query Responsive Test

http://www.gironanoticias.com

- ✘ Your website is not using media queries. You should consider using this technique in order to implement responsive design functionalities.

HOW TO FIX MEDIA QUERY RESPONSIVE TEST

Media queries allow you to style elements for specific devices (smartphones, tablets, desktop computers) by using attributes like width, height, resolution, aspect ratio, orientation or color. By using media queries, presentations can be tailored to a specific range of output devices without changing the content itself.

Example:

```
<link rel="stylesheet" media="screen and (min-width: 480px) and (max-width: 960px)"
href="480-960.css" />

<!-- OR -->
@media screen and (min-width: 480px) and (max-width: 960px) {
  #header {
    display: none;
  }
```

An @media rule specifies the target media types of a set of statements. In the example above, we are specifying the media type screen. The max-width and min-width features are telling the browser that at any screen size larger than 480px, but smaller than 960px, hide any elements with id="header".

Microdata Schema Test

<http://www.gironanoticias.com>

- ✘ Your webpage doesn't take the advantages of HTML Microdata specifications in order to markup structured data. View Google's guide for getting started with microdata.

HOW TO FIX MICRODATA SCHEMA TEST

HTML5 Microdata is an easy way to add semantic markup to your web pages. Search engines rely on this markup to improve the display of search results, making it easier for people to find the right web pages.

Here is a simple example of how to use HTML5 microdata in your contact web page:

```

  Joe Doe
  The Example Company
  604-555-1234
  joe.doe@example.com

```
